

Christina Nelson, JBJS Director of Publishing and Editorial Operations

Christina has more than 13 years of publishing experience at The Journal of Bone and Joint Surgery, with a focus on the editorial strategy and peer-review processes for JBJS journal portfolio. She has helped coordinate the launch of all five JBJS sister journals as well as the implementation of submission fees for the flagship JBJS. She also works closely with the Editor-in-Chief to conduct workshops, symposiums, and editorial board meetings as well as identify and operationalize new publishing policies and best practices. Outside of JBJS, Christina serves as the Secretary on the Council of Science Editors Board of Directors as well as the board liaison to the CSE Marketing Committee. Christina is a graduate of the University of Michigan with degrees in English and Psychology.
