

News About Members

David E Nadziejka, a senior technical editor in the Information and Publishing Division at Argonne National Laboratory, is the 1996 recipient of the Alfred N Goldsmith Award. The Goldsmith Award is given by the Professional Communication Society (PCS) of the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers (IEEE) for outstanding contributions to the field of technical communication and thus to the goals of the PCS. The award was presented at the PCS annual conference in Saratoga Springs, New York, in September 1996.

Nadziejka's professional interests, reflected in recent writings and presentations, focus on substantive editing of technical manuscripts, the precision and utility of technical terminology, and maximizing the practical value of computers and software in the editing process. Between 1990 and 1994, Nadziejka served on the CBE Scientific Style and Format subcommittee. He was associate editor of the journal Technical Communication from 1990 to 1995, and editor of the IEEE Professional Communication Society's newsletter from 1993 to 1995. He has taught technical writing, technical editing, and presentations courses at the Institute of Paper Chemistry, Illinois Institute of Technology, and Argonne.
